

FCICA Announces Convention 2009 for Austin, TX

Posted: October 16, 2008

FCICA will head to Austin, TX for its 2009 Convention entitled "Good Education, Good Tunes and Good Times!" Contractors, manufacturers and flooring suppliers will gather in the Live Music Capitol of the World, March 7 -10, 2009 for education, networking and committee meetings.

According to FCICA Chairman Christopher Capobianco, "Nothing can help you grow your business and work smarter than an opportunity to spend a few days with some of the smartest people in our industry. The educational sessions are always fantastic and the times in between over a beverage or a meal are where the real networking opportunities happen. It's hard to describe what a great experience it is so you just have to try it."

FCICA, headquartered in West Bloomfield, MI, is an international association organized to promote and protect the best interests of floor covering installation contractors. Its mission is to provide its members with continuing education, access to cutting edge technology, and networking opportunities so as to assist them in achieving their business goals. FCICA currently has members in 36 states, Guam and Bermuda. For more information about FCICA, please contact the office at (248) 661-5015.
